

VISUAL ARTS FUTURES: PARENTS AND PUPIL

INFORMATION EVENING

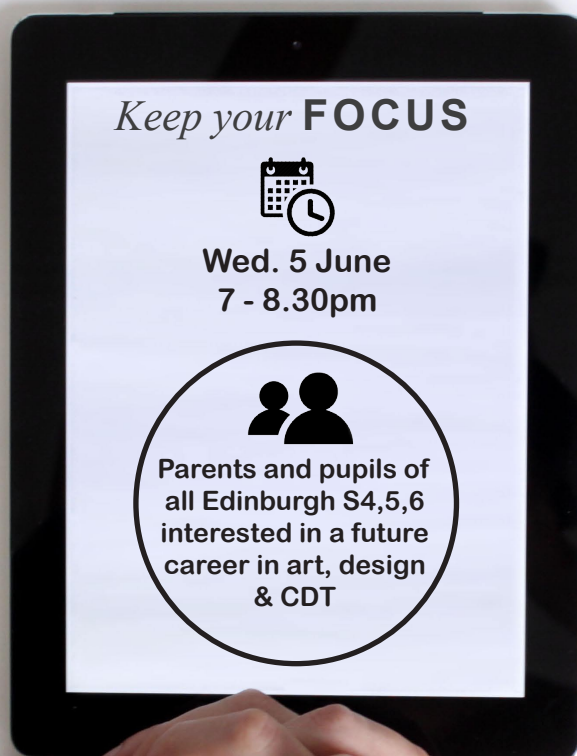

the event

FREE BUT TICKETED

PARENT AND PUPIL FOCUSED

Please join Julie Read from Portfolio Oomph for an inspiring evening to learn about the scope for careers in the creative industries - visual arts specifically.

- We will unwrap the skills gained in a creative education and how they're transferable to many careers (soft vs hard).
- We will inform you of the ways into these careers through further and higher education.
- Edinburgh is rich with opportunities for artists and designers after education. We will uncover resources, studio complexes, open access facilities etc.
- We will offer further advice on portfolios and College / UCAS applications & signpost to useful resources also Q & As.

Competition is fierce for UK art courses. For example at Edinburgh College of Art there are in the region of 6000 applicants for approximately 280 places (1:22).

You need to learn to think creatively. Then prepare your portfolio in the best way possible so that you don't miss out.

This event is aimed at both parents and pupils and it is preferable to attend with your son or daughter. This to fully understand and communicate the competition that there is for places at some of the leading art colleges/ universities.

unlocking your creative genius

Julie Read is a leading educator in the Creative Industries, on a mission to create a legacy to 'unlock your creative genius'.

"My passion and mission is assisting YOU in creating an art portfolio to get you that place at college or university.

CLARITY, in particular around the creative process, sketchbooks and what the Colleges actually want to see are the founding principles."
